At Leirs Station, on the Kentucky Central Railroad, a young man by the name of Joe Duncan attempted to board the upward-bound freight train while in motion, and fell between the cars, which passed over him, cutting off one of his legs.

Elder Wilkes.
This gentleman, it will be remembered, debated several Theological points with Rev. Mr. Ditzler, in this city last summer. We have been informed that these gentlemen will meet again in Louisville, on the 13th of December 1870. Langford B. Wilkes, is preaching for the Christian people in Lexington, where he has been laboring for several years past. His congregation and membership is large, and the man who fills his pulpit must have some mind.

Mr. Wilkes has many points which eminently fit him for the work in which he is engaged, and not least of them is his thorough knowledge of the Bible, and the manner in which he handles it, overshadows at once his opponent and leaves him with his proposition answered and nothing further to talk about. His perceptions are large, and can tell his opponent what he wants to say before he utters it—and if permitted could furnish a better argument. Quick to perceive and quick in speech, Elder V., can say more in five minutes than many men can in fifteen. Many men are like good race horses, the harder they are pressed the better they make. We believe that if Elder W. was crowded he would surprise his friends much more than ever.

Covington Items.
Says the Covington Journal: "A worthy citizen of our city, in some what straitened circumstances, and too old to work, was made glad a few days since by being presented with a rich relative in Cleveland."

The Carrollton Democrat says:

Last Spring, a boy, son of a Mr. Bear, was drowned while crossing Twin, in Owen county. The body was found a few days ago, buried in the mud, near the mouth of that creek and was taken to Madison for interment."

The Cincinnati Enquirer says: "A young gentleman named Spragins, of Cynthiana, Ky., was halted by four highwaymen, a few nights since on the river road below this city, but by pointing a navy revolver at them he caused the villains to beat a hasty retreat. A pistol is a good thing for a person to have who travels any of the roads leading into Covington at night."

Mr. Spragins is the Deputy Circuit Clerk of this county.

Covington Market.—Cattle.—The receipts of cattle during the past week amounted to 1,611 head, of which 750 head were shipped Eastward. The remainder were sold here. The market is steady, and prices have undergone no material change since our last report. We quote shipping cattle at $6.60; first quality of butchers' cattle $5.50; second quality do., $4.50; third quality do., $3.50.

Sheep.—There is a moderate demand for sheep, with receipts and sales during the past week of 350 head at $2.40.

Hogs.—The aggregate receipts during the past week amounted to 14,832 head. The market has fluctuated somewhat since our last report. Sales were made at $6.00 to $6.50 per 100 pounds gross according to quality.

Town Talk.
Fri-Lie & Rowland sold a fine horse last week for $101, cash. That is business.

Mr. H. C. Ozle, has brought to this city and shipped from our depot 30,000 pounds of tobacco or 25 bushels. He is a heavy tobacco man, and raised most of the above.

M. J. Rankin, says that ducks would swim now, if people had any water in their ponds but they have none, and if it freezes it will become dryer than ever.

John Redman, arrived in town last week from Missouri. He has bought him a place in Missouri, near Kansas City, and is pleased with the country. Mr. R. will accept our thanks for late Kansas City papers.

"Dickety" is the name of a little red bob-tailed dog of the torrid persuasion, which left his home (John Willams), on the Millersburg Pike) some week or two since, without any just cause of provocation. This is to notify any person who may have said dog, that they send him home, as his company is very desirable.

Mr. Bogenshins, of Covington, was in town last week. He is engaged in the stove business.

John B. Mooney, Steam Engine Builder, was in town last week. His establishment was destroyed by fire some months since, but he has a new establishment, and can be found at No. 124, East Columbia Street.

Licking River is very low. The people on Pleasant street are discussing the bridge question yet.

Mr. Shumate has put new shingles on his large business house, corner of Main and Pleasant.

Quite a number of houses are offered for rent in Cynthiana. We understand if the prices don't change soon, there will be more. A gentleman informed us the other day, that rents were higher in Cynthiana, than in Covington.

Potatoes sell for one dollar per bushel in this city.

Charley Reikel is selling silver ware, in the shape of quarters and halves, for less money than any "other man." He can be found on Pike street.

Mrs. O. Cummins has received a hand-ome assortment of splendid bonnets and hats from New York city, which should be seen to be appreciated. Call and see her stock.

Mr. Mand, of St. Louis, was in Cynthiana last week.

A very important movement is on foot in Kentucky, which cannot fail to redound to the benefit of some portion of the West, and more than likely to the interest of our territory. The soldiers of that State have organized an association known as the "Central Kentucky Emigration Society," for the purpose of taking advantage of the soldiers' Homestead act of July 15, 1870, and settling in a body on lands which can be obtained under its provisions. Col. W. W. Bradley, 7th Kentucky cavalry, has been elected President; Lieut. H. M. Magee, 7th Kentucky cavalry, secretary; Capt. R. F. Long, 4th Kentucky infantry, treasurer. Capt. L. Cox and Capt. J. M. Givens have been appointed a committee to visit and examine first the lands of Colorado and then of other territories. This committee will be here in a few days. A private note from Capt. Long says that the organization now numbers about 150, and will be increased to at least 200 by spring, and that he and Capt. Givens will be here by the middle of November. We need not assure them a cordial welcome.

What Next?
Rev. O. B. Frothingham thus explains what is known as a radical religionist, "one of whom he is which?" "We don't bow the knee to Jesus; we do not sit submissive at his feet; he is not for us lord and sovereign master. The radical believes in immortality; not because Jesus rose from the dead, for had not men believed in immortality they would never have believed he rose. The radical is interested in immortality as a high religious belief. He believes in as much of the Bible as answers to his cultivated reason and his matured conviction, and in no more. He reads it as he reads other books, and judges it. What his heart authenticates he accepts. What is good was good before it was in the Bible, or it would not be good there."

Democratic State Convention.
Rooms: Dem. State Convention, Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 14, 1870.

The Democratic Central Committee, heretofore, on the 15th of September, 1870 issued the following call for a State Convention of the Democratic party:

"In the Democracy of Kentucky: In discharge of the duty devolving upon us to designate the time and place at which a State Convention shall be held, we hereby invite you to meet in Frankfort, on Sunday, January 7th, 1871, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the following offices, to be filled at the next August election: Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General, Auditor, Treasurer, Register of the Land Office, and Superintendent of Public Instruction.

The Democratic Convention may as nearly as possible, be a true representative body of the party, the County Committees are instructed, after a full and free discussion, to call meetings to be held in the various counties of the State, for the purpose of appointing delegates, the number of which it is recommended, shall, as nearly as practicable, conform to the number of votes to which each county will be entitled in Convention, estimated by the rule usually adopted of one vote for every hundred Democratic votes and one vote for each fraction of fifty and over—the Presidential election of 1868 being taken as the basis."

Since the Committee have received from many portions of the State reports from individuals and from County Committees, that the time for holding the Convention shall be postponed to a later day; and the reasons for the said request seeming to the Committee good and sufficient, we have determined to change the day for the meeting of the Convention to Wednesday, the 31 day of May 1871, on which day the party is invited to meet at Frankfort, for the purposes and in the manner indicated in the former call.

TO PHYSICIANS.

NEW YORK, August 15th, 1863.

Allow me to call your attention to my

Preparation of Compound
Extract Buchu.

The component parts are BUCHU
LONG LEAF, CUBEBS, JANI-FER BERRIES.

MODE OF PREPARATION.—Buchu, in various quantities, is macerated in spirit of juniper berries by distillation, to remove the gin. Cubes extracted by displacement with spirits obtained from juniper berries; very little sugar is used, and a small proportion of spirit. It is more palatable than any now in use.

NOVEMBER 4, 1854.
I am acquainted with Mr. H. T. HUB-BARD; he occupied the Drug Store opposite the residence, and was successful in conducting the business where others had not been equally so before him. I have been favorably impressed with his character and abilities.
